PT.02 THE IMPORTANCE OF SYSTEMIC WORLDVIEWS

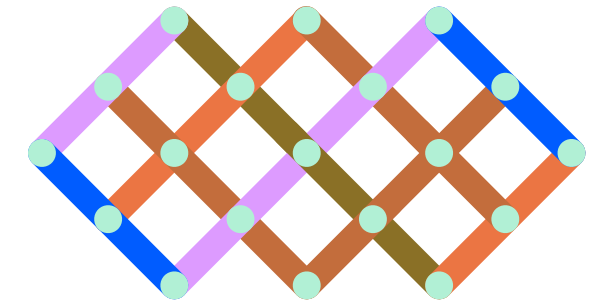

What did you feel while watching this film?

What concepts/ideas stood out?

What are your lineages into your practice of change making?

For example, they might be lineages from spirituality to science, community organising to psychology, research to innovation, somatics to justice work...

Why are worldviews important (to the work of change)?

Where are you seeing openings in your ways of thinking, doing and being and what might you want to explore next?
